Providing Artists with a Major Record Label Experience

Jason Benzon, top of class graduate from Berklee College of Music, turns a dream into a reality by announcing the grand opening of SongTrack Studios. SongTrack Studios was professionally built from the ground up starting back in 2014 so that local artists wouldn't have to move out of state to create "Grammy worthy results". Being accredited as a Record Producer, Arranger, Audio Engineer, Mix Engineer, and Songwriter, Jason has the background needed to turn Salt Lake City into the next LA or Nashville.

SongTrack Studios has gone through years of research and consulting with acousticians and studio design professionals to create an environment where artists will be able to go through the same production process implemented by top record producers within major record labels; a process in which Jason learned from Berklee. With state-of-the-art gear along with extensive pre-production, artists' experiences will be much more than singing or playing into mics. Jason believes that "every artist deserves more". Within a month per song of working alongside Jason, each artist will explore their "Artist Identity" and will get the most out of their music and vision.

"With a Bachelor's degree in Music Production from Berklee College of Music it will be an exciting journey to continue producing music that stands the test of time and to work on the many projects coming out of this new studio" (J. Benzon).
